The usual things

It is difficult to imagine the world today without some of the things that make our living in it so pleasant and comfortable. How naturally we lift the telephone receiver, step into an automobile, and look for the news of the world in the newspaperevery day of our lives.

Another of these usual, invaluable things, accepted as part of the routine of existence, is the guidance given by the advertisements in this newspaper in supplying our wants from day to day. We read them. They help us to save time and money. And our lives go on - more easily and more fully.

Every day the advertisements suggest ways in which we can get things we want with the greatest possible satisfaction to ourselves: They tell us of new conveniences and comforts of which we would not otherwise have known. They help us to get downto-the-dollar satisfaction. They assure us of proved values.

Advertisements are among the necessities today read them regularly

SUCCESS WOULD BE FATAL

SUCCESS WOULD BE FATAL

Mr. Gandhi and his followers are going to try to drive the British out of India by boycotting the Government and all its works. They are not very likely to succeed, but it would be tough luck for them if that should happen. They would in chiefs, Mr. Stalin of Moscow, or the Ameer of Afghanistan.

These rulers do not allow their subjects to go on strike against the Governdealing with those who attempt it. It is only under the "satanic" British rule that Mr. Gandhi and his associates could get so far fittle the strike the control of the strike the strike the property of the strike the st

PRICE GOVERNS DEMAND

Weolen men tell the tariff advisory board that there is an over-supply of wool on the world market. Rubber producers a while ago decided that there was too much rubber in the world. Brazilian coffees planters have become convinced, to the world that there is a demand for. Cotton on the world that there is a demand for. Cotton growers claim that there is a surplus of cotton on the world marks. And throughout Canada and the United States there is a well defined and strengthening than there is any immediate call for.

If generalizing from the side-lines is permissible in such matters, it would seem fairly probable that production costs of these, and a good many other commodities, and the surplus over the amount that there is supplies over the amount that there a surplus over the amount that there a surplus over the amount that world's inhabitants. How much of any commodity can be sold is all a matter of the price at which it can be delivered to those who could make use of it. Maybe it view some serious attention to that basic and unchanging fact.

HUMANITY VERSUS ECONOMY

In the steam scoop being taken off the job and the exbavating for the addition to the typ pick and shoved. Straight-laced consensats will tell us, of course, that this is "turning back the hands of the clock," etc., etc., reversing the whole trend of economic development, throwing logic to the winds, discounting the whole trend of economic development, throwing logic to the winds, discounting the whole trend of economic development, throwing logic to the winds, discounting the winds are the winds of the win of logic or the implications of consistency. The hard fact is that human beings have to live, that to live they must work and ought to work, and that when there is no other way of giving them a chance to earn a living even labor-saving machinery has to be stalled. So the excavating for the post office building is being done by its the excavating for the new provincial office building. Both are deliberate sacrifices of economy, in the interests of humanity. And as such they will be accepted and approved by the public, who will have to pay whatever added cost may be involved.

"--with all his worldly goods"

HERE, in this old strong-box, so long guarded and locked, is his "estate"
. . . the "worldly goods" which he has bequeathed to her.

One by one her adviser takes out the temptingly engraved certificates and examines them. One by one he lays them down with a sorrowful shake of the head-

Slowly the truth dawns upon her. Those wonderful purchases that were to make them rich . . . independent. These speculations that were to lead them

But at the bottom of the box there lies an unpretentious document, which suddenly she recollects. It cannot have depreciated. It must still be safe and sure .

She reaches in and draws forth his Life Insurance Policy.

Amid the wreckage of thousands of estates, Life Insurance stands as the final and enduring refuge in time of need. It is the one investment no man can afford to be without.
